

Lesson 5 - Learning Diary

How successful was I in today's lesson?

I can explain the difference between software and hardware

I can identify different types of software and give examples

I can describe the role of the operating system

What have I learnt today?

How have I have learnt it?

What did I find difficult today?

What resources helped me learn today?

What is software?

A computer system requires software and hardware. Hardware is the things that you can see and touch, software is the that tell the computer what to do.

software is software that does things for the computer. It can be categorised into and software. An example of an is Microsoft Windows. An example of is software is software that performs tasks for the user. software can be categorized into purpose, purpose and bespoke.

